CITY HEALTH BOARD FACES BIG PROBLEM

Detention Hospital May Have to be Closed Down

INCINERATOR IS CIVIC NEED

Adequate Garbage Collection and Destruction Needed

Can the detention hospital and city health work be kept going next year in the face of the city financial situation?

That is the question which President Charles Stolzenbach president of the city board of health says the board must answer and answer soon. He said Monday that he expects some discussion of hospital finances at the meeting of the board Thursday night.

"We must keep the hospital going some way for we dare not close down," said he. "If we should close down and there should come an epidemic the city will be in terrible condition before we could reopen and get going. So the hospital must be kept open and running," he said.

WORK HANDICAPPED
Likewise, he pointed out, the city health work will be seriously handicapped next year. The health department needs, according to Mayor Cunningham's figures, $16,000 for 1924 and will get only $6,500 from both the budget commission and from all other sources, leaving the health fund shy by $9,500.

"It was only because we had no protracted hot spells this past summer that Lima escaped an epidemic of disease," said President Stolzenbach. "If next summer is the usual run of weather and we get a long dry spell and have our finances over a thousand dollars shy, what are we going to do? It is a matter that should seriously concern the people of this city."

Health board members are a unit, he said, in demanding that the city have an incinerating plant where garbage and refuse can be destroyed. He said that the city needs a system of garbage collection and disposal fully as much, if not more, than a system of sewage disposal. Taking into consideration the fact that the health fund in 1924 is going to be over 50 percent short of its needs and the fact that Lima has no way of taking care of garbage, President Stolzenbach says that unless the city moves quickly to do something there is grave danger of an epidemic.

WILL TELL WHOLE STORY OF SHIPWRECK

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Captain Edward H. Watson, chief of the destroyer squadron which was hurried to the rocks September 8, was expected today to tell the naval court of inquiry investigating the wreck of the "whole story" of how seven ships disregarding signals from the wireless communication station at Point Arguello, steered head-on into the California coast.

Captain Watson and 13 other naval officers, named defendants by the court upset proceedings Saturday by declaring their desire to clear up the mystery of the wreck, an action which drew praise from Admiral Pratt, presiding member of the court who characterized the conduct of the defendants as "worthy of the best traditions of the navy."

TWO DRUNKS FINED
Two drunks in court Monday morning were fined the usual $15 by Judge Poling. They were: Hazel Coar, 144 W. Fourth-st.; W. E. Lampher, 125 S. Scott-st.

MAYOR RECEIVES PETITIONS

Asked to Name Men on Hospital Building Committee

Petitions are being received at city hall asking the commissioners to name certain citizens as members of the hospital commission to erect the new city hospital for which the taxpayers voted $800,000 in bonds last August. Two names have thus far been presented, Attorney Emmett J. Everett of 1574 W. High-st and W. E. Jameson of 729 E. Market-st. The former petition contained four names and the latter about 20 names, examination revealed.

One of the things which attracted the attention of Mayor Harold Cunningham is that both of them are signed by residents on the east side of the city. Observing this Mayor Cunningham told newspaper men that "sectionalism will not enter into the selection of the commission." It was also noted in an examination of the two petitions that they appear to have been typewritten on the same machine, that the wording is almost identical and that even the size and weight of the paper on each petition is identical.

Mayor Cunningham has sole power of appointing the commission but his appointments must be confirmed by the city commissioners.

CITY TO PAY ITS ANTITOXIN BILL

State's Check Saves Situation, City Manager Says

Druggists who formally notified the city they will no longer furnish antitoxin for city health work until the city pays their bills, will get their money this week, City Manager Bingham announced Monday. Thus the city meets the ultimatum which the druggists handed the city Friday.

Discovery late Friday afternoon that the state had come thru with $1,000 of its share of the money used for city health work is what makes it possible for the city to meet the terms of the druggists' demands, the city manager said.

Just as soon as City Purchasing Agent Hume gets the bills in shape, a check will go forward and the menace of the city health office being without antitoxin will vanish, Bingham said.

CHARGE INTOXICATION
Plea of not guilty to driving an automobile while intoxicated was entered Monday before Judge Poling by Leo Flynn, whose arrest was made Friday following an automobile accident at Market and Main-sts, in which he figured. Trial has been set for 3 p. m. Wednesday.

THREE LOCAL YOUTHS HELD FOR INQUIRY

Boy Who Police Say Shot Opal Rudy, 19, Says Affair Was An Accident

GIRL COMPANION INJURED

Hurt as Auto is Wrecked, She Says She Heard Three Shots

Opal Rudy, 19, of 138 W. Ninth-st, hovering near death in Hamilton City hospital with a revolver shot in her abdomen.

Hazel Howe, 18, of Freeman-av., her girl companion is in the same hospital with a fractured collar bone, the victim of an automobile accident.

Three Lima youths, Edgar Montague, 23, of 1212 S. Union-st, Harley Wolfe, 22, of 210 E. Kibby-st, and George Howard, 24, of 1110 S. Union-st are held by Hamilton police pending investigation.

SHOT IN ABDOMEN
Opal Rudy was shot by Montague, police say, early Sunday morning on the Dixie Highway three miles north of Hamilton. The bullet entered her abdomen. Little hope is entertained at the hospital for her recovery.

Hazel Howe was the victim of a disastrous wreck of the speeding automobile taking her girl companion to Hamilton hospital. The car skidded off the road, plunged into the ditch and half overturned, throwing the girl to the pavement, fracturing her collar bone.

The shooting and wreck culminated an automobile party in which the five Lima persons and one Hamilton girl, Emma Allen, were included.

CLAIMS ACCIDENT
Montague declares the shooting was accidental. The Allen girl tells a different story. Police are investigating while the three men are held without charge.

In a statement to Hamilton police, Montague told of the party from Hamilton to the spot on the Dixie highway three miles north of the city where the shooting took place.

The automobile was parked at the side of the road. The three girls were in the machine. Montague and his male companions were out of the car. Montague took a gun out of his pocket and pulled the trigger in play after he had extracted all the cartridges in his belief, according to his story to police.

The bullet entered Miss Rudy's body, lodging in the abdomen. The injured girl was rushed to Hamilton City hospital in the automobile. When near the city the automobile swerved off the road and in the wreck Miss Howe sustained a fractured collar bone.

HEARD THREE SHOTS
Statement that three shots were fired instead of one as was Montague's claim to police was made by Emma Allen, Hamilton police said.

The Allen girl said she joined the party at Hamilton and when the car was parked on the Dixie highway she went to sleep but was awakened by three shots fired in rapid succession and Miss Rudy's exclamation, "My God, I am shot," police declared.

Montague claims only one shot was fired. His two male companions substantiated his story. No information had been obtained from the Rudy girl as her condition is too serious for her to talk.

WARD'S LOYAL WIFE

This is the first time that Walter S. Ward and his wife, Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, have been photographed together since the millionaire baker's son was charged with murder of Clarence Peters, ex sailor. Mrs. Ward has been at her husband's side every day during his trial at White Plains, N. Y.

Mrs. Ward Takes Stand at White Plains Murder Trial

SOBS BRING TEARS TO CROWD

Didn't See Husband Night of Killing, She Says

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Walter S. Ward was called to the witness stand today by the prosecution as a witness in the case in which her husband is charged with murder in the first degree of Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass.

There was a hush over the crowded court room when the defendant's wife, dressed in a blue jersey dress, trimmed with white cuffs and collar and wearing a small dark turban hat that afforded a clear view of features, mounted to the stand. She sobbed as she sat in the chair but when the questioning began, she dried her eyes with her small handkerchief and tried to smile.

She said that the first she saw of her husband on the night of the killing was between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning when he entered her room and awakened her.

Asked if he offered any explanation why he visited her so late Mrs. Ward replied that he did. Justice Wagner upheld the contention of the defense that Mrs. Ward could not be called upon to testify what her husband had said to her.

"Was his explanation satisfactory?" asked the prosecutor. Still suppressing her sobs, Mrs. Ward testified that when the first grand jury began the investigation of the killing of Peters, after it had been announced her husband was implicated, she went to Bermuda. After she had been there some weeks, she said, she called her husband to know if she could not come home to get her children and go to some other resort. This was arranged, she added, and she took the children to Atlantic City.

FALLS 4 STORIES, RESUMES PLAY

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. — (United Press) — A fall of four stories from a window in her mother's room in a local hotel today resulted in nothing more than painful bruises to three-year-old Betty Jane Heck, daughter of Mrs. H. H. Heck, of Sidney, Ohio. The child landed on a cement sidewalk and after her injuries were dressed, resumed her play.

General she answered that she remained there, out of the jurisdiction of New York state, while the last grand jury was investigating the killing and preparing the indictment under which her husband now is being tried.

Mrs. Ward remained on the witness stand fifteen minutes and when she returned to her seat behind her husband she was shaking nervously. Before she sat down she looked fixedly into his eyes and then suddenly buried her face in her handkerchief and sobbed audibly. In a moment sympathetic sobs could be heard from women scattered all over the court room.

LABOR WON'T BACK THIRD PARTY, GOMPERS ASSERTS

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (United Press) — The American Federation of Labor will not back any third political party, Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, declared here today.

"Backing such a political organization as a third party would be against the principles of the federation," Gompers said. "I don't think we have any business going into politics that way."

Gompers said the federation had "made good thru non-partisan campaign methods and would continue in the same course."

Gompers passed thru St. Paul enroute to Portland, Ore. to take part in the national convention of the American Federation of Labor.

PROVISIONS OF CITY FRANCHISE ARE RECOGNIZED

Judge H. A. Miller, of Celina, Grants Temporary Injunction In Allen-co Common Pleas Court Monday, Citing Carmen

Action Follows Refusal of City Commission to Act on Request of Company—Loss In Traffic Is Shown By Railway Lines

Operation of motor conveyances by striking street carmen, to haul passengers in Lima was halted by court order Monday, when a temporary restraining order prohibiting them was obtained in common pleas court by D. J. Cable, president of the Lima Street Railway Co.

Judge H. A. Miller, of Celina, who granted the injunction, set Oct. 2 as the date for hearing testimony to determine whether or not the order is to be made permanent. The company charges that operation of busses is in violation of its franchise rights.

Guy S. Campbell, president of the local carmen's union, and more than 40 other persons are made party to the injunction. It is of sweeping character and includes the organization, members, officers and employees or confederates thereof.

The court declined to make the city, Manager C. A. Bingham and commissioners party to the injunction as was sought in the petition.

APPEAL TO COURT
The street car company presented the petition seeking a restraining order to Judge Miller direct, the papers being filed in the clerk's office after the hearing.

Arrangements were made secretly on Saturday for bringing the case before the court. Judge Fred C. Becker, before whom the case was to have been brought, was unable to hear it because of other matters scheduled. At his request Judge Miller came to Lima to hear the matter.

Application for the restraining order is based on rights granted the street railway company by the city commission under the franchise permitting operation.

Under terms of Ordinance 1440, the city agreed to regulate the operation of busses, jitneys and all other motor conveyances, and not to permit them to operate on the same streets with trolley lines.

OPERATION LIMITED
The ordinance further prohibits operation of lines closer than three blocks parallel to a car line and forbids any bus line crossing street car tracks at more than two points.

The petition presented to the court was signed by F. A. Bundy, superintendent, and Ira Longworth as company counsel. It was read to the court in person, however by D. J. Cable president.

The petition in part represents that the carmen by conspiracy and confederation quit work on August 11. That their defection tied up service which was not completely resumed until September 8. The defendants petition declares have been operating motor cars, and other conveyances for hire or for donations. Passengers have been unlawfully solicited and carried to various points in the city reached by the car lines.

Certain acts of violence on the part of the striking carmen are charged. The acts include hurling of missiles, blocking switches and greased rails.

FEW ARE RIDING
Injury has been done the company by the operation of the auto lines. The number of passengers has shrunk from a normal average of 10,000 fares daily to below 500 daily, the court was informed.

These acts and the situation has been laid before the city, Cable declared, but officials have refused to act. Cable informed the court that promises made by the company with the city have been fulfilled. More than $100,000 of the $200,000, to be spent for improvement within two years is already expended, he said.

After hearing the petition read, the court ordered that an injunction be granted, save as to the city. The order restrains defendants from operating automobiles and other vehicles upon Lima streets until further order of the court.

Copies of the injunction were placed in hands of deputy sheriff Monday noon for service upon each and every defendant. Violation of the injunction will make defendants liable for contempt of court. Until they are served with copies of the restraining order, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees engaged in running automobiles will continue to carry the public, they declared.

After service is had they will obey the court order they assert.

PARK IS PLANNED BY BAXTERS

Part of New Subdivision and Will be Donated to City

Plans have been completed by the heirs of Samuel A. Baxter for a new subdivision west of the city which will contain 20 acres of land and of which the heirs will dedicate 10 acres to the city for a park and also dedicate a plot for playground purposes.

Announcement of this was made at city hall Monday by Mayor Cunningham who has examined the plans and says that they provide for one of the most beautiful subdivisions yet offered the city. The 30 acres of land, he said has Woodlawn-av as its eastern boundary, Allentown-rd on the south and Hazel-av on the north. The new subdivision is to be known as "Samuel Baxter Place."

One of the features of the ten acres of the plot have been left for park purposes and the Baxter heirs agree to dedicate this to the city as a permanent park. Likewise a plot of land about 200 feet square will be dedicated to the city for playground purposes, the mayor said.

Formal presentation of the proposition to the city commission may be made Monday night as the plans of the subdivision have been finished. F. A. Baxter was at city hall Monday displaying the plans to the mayor and other officials.

2 U. S. ARMY MEN AMONG VICTIMS

Balloons in International Race Smashed in Belgium

TEN FLIERS ARE MISSING

Lightning Adds to Winds' Havoc in Air Tragedy

LONDON. (Associated Press).—The American seaplane entered for the seventh annual competition for the Schneider cup on September 28 fell into the sea near Portsmouth during a trial flight today and was totally wrecked. The occupants were picked up unhurt.

BRUSSELS. (Associated Press).—Five airmen, including two United States Army lieutenants, lost their lives, another was seriously injured and five balloons were smashed on the ground during the annual international balloon race, started yesterday under the most adverse weather conditions ever experienced in the history of the competition.

The dead are: Lieutenant Olmstead and Lieutenant Chohitaw of the United States Army balloon S-6; Lieutenant Von Gruningen and Lieutenant Wehren of the Swiss balloon Geneva; Penaranda Barca of the Spanish balloon Polar.

Gomez Guillamon, assistant to Barca in the Polar, was seriously hurt.

The United States Navy A-669 and the Penaranda III, a French entry, piloted by G. Blanchet, were the only balloons reported up to noon today as having landed safely.

10 NOT HEARD FROM

In view of the terrific storm which broke out half an hour after the last balloon took off and which was raging over northern Belgium and Holland and the neighboring North sea waters until 10 o'clock last night, fears are entertained for the safety of ten balloonists not yet heard from. These are Blennime and Ravanne, balloon Plegard, France; De Myster and Weenstra, balloon Belgica, Belgium; Dunville and Spencer, England; Armbruster and Picard, Switzerland; De La Sierra and Magdalena, Spain.

The officials of the Brussels Aero Club, appalled by the catastrophe, point out that they had advocated postponement of the race but found that the rules were absolutely inflexible. They will propose changes to overcome this difficulty in the future. Many members, however, favor cancelling the competition altogether.

U. S. BALLOON BURSTS

The third American entrant in the race, the balloon St. Louis, never took the air, bursting before the start from the pressure of her anchor rope.

The S-6 was caught in the vortex of a terrific southwesterly gale in crossing the Belgian frontier about 7 o'clock last evening, the rain storm forcing the balloonists to unload all their ballast. When the balloon crashed at Nistelrode both men were dead. Lieutenant Olmstead was killed outright when lightning struck the balloon, while Lieutenant Chohitaw suffered death when the S-6 fell, in the opinion of Dr. Van Bingen of Nistelrode, who examined the bodies.

Lieutenant Olmstead's body was found under the bag in the basket, while that of his companion was about 25 feet away, as if the victim had jumped.

The disqualification of the United States Army balloon S-6 had just been decided upon because of her ramming the Belgian entry, Ville de Bruxelles, at the start of the race when news of the disaster to the American balloon reached the Aero Club.

The families of the victims are here in Brussels.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

City hall floors were given a coat of oil over Sunday and presented a neat appearance Monday morning.

Miss Ruth Keating, of the city manager's office, is back on the job after an automobile trip with members of her family to Cincinnati.

Major Frank Hume, city purchasing agent, does not think much of the spot he selected for a week end fishing trip, as a real fishing ground, said the fish was punk but he enjoyed the outing, so he should worry.

Kathryn Stout, eleven year old daughter of Mrs. Elsie Stout, 1015 St. Johns-av, who underwent an operation at the City hospital Saturday, is reported as doing nicely.

Edith Leatherman, student nurse at the City hospital, who underwent an operation for appendicitis two weeks ago, is improved and was removed to her home in Waynesfield Sunday.

Congressman John L. Cable leaves the latter part of the week mid-air at an altitude of 1,000 feet. Peasants who ran to the spot found the dead bodies of Lieutenant Von Gruningen and Lieutenant Wehren.

The Polar also caught fire from a bolt and fell near Hoyat-Goor. Her pilot, Bernard A. Barca, was killed and his assistant, Gomez Guillamon, whose fall was broken when an eddy of wind blew the car against a tree top, received fractures of both legs and other injuries.

Charges damage to house sold on installment plan

Damages in the sum of $1,200 are sought by Mrs. Minnie J. Heath, of Harrod, in an action filed in common pleas court Monday naming W. H. Merz and Flossie Merz, defendants.

The petition recites that the two defendants purchased a residence and two lots of her, located in Harrod. The two were to pay $500 annually until the purchase price, $2,000 was paid out.

Plaintiff asserts that the property has been allowed to deteriorate by the defendants, and is damaged to the extent of $1,200. She seeks judgment in that amount.

DISEASE COMPLICATIONS CAUSE WOMAN'S DEATH

Mrs. Teresa Kelly, 64, of 318 N. West-st, died Monday at 7 a. m., at St. Rita's hospital following an illness of three weeks. Death was due to a complication of diseases. She was a member of St. Rose church and L. C. B. A.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Graft, of 318 N. West-st; one son, Bernard Sherran, of Hammond, Indiana, and four sisters, Mrs. J. S. O'Connor, Mrs. Mary Cunningham and Mrs. Martha O'Neill of Lima and Mrs. J. J. Collins of Sidney.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at St. Rose Catholic church in charge of Father Manning. Interment in Gethsemani.

ACCUSERS DEFIED BY MRS. STOKES

Fail to Identify Her as Inmate of Notorious Club

HIRED IN CASE, DEPUTY SAYS

Officer Confesses Being Employed to Get Affidavits

(BULLETIN) CHICAGO. (Associated Press).—Announcement that the county grand jury would have an opportunity to investigate the charges of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes that her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy New Yorker whom she is suing for divorce, and his agents, have sought to ruin her reputation was made today by Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Wharton.

CHICAGO. (Associated Press).—Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, whose divorce suit is pending in New York, faced six persons early today in the office of Charles E. Wharton, assistant state's attorney, who is investigating Mrs. Stokes' charge that her husband has sought to defame her character by affidavits obtained here, and defied them to identify her as a former inmate of a notorious "club" in the old Chicago tenderloin. None of the witnesses could identify Mrs. Stokes as having resided at the "club."

When Mrs. Stokes with her attorney and Mrs. Ann Miserva of Denver, Colo., appeared at the county building it was announced she had come to face those who had signed affidavits at the instance of W. E. D. Stokes, the wealthy hotel owner, that Mrs. Stokes was known in Chicago's night life prior to her marriage.

Later, Wharton, who previously had been quoted as having said the prosecutors were meeting difficulty in obtaining definite evidence, said they were "progressing."

"The new evidence changes the whole thing," Wharton said.

A confession has been obtained from Robert E. Lee, negro special deputy sheriff, that he had been employed to get the affidavits, Wharton and policemen said, adding that they found in Lee's possession a note dated August 1, "bought six affidavits."

Lee, according to Wharton's announcement, said he had been employed by counsel for Stokes last July to get her with Joe Bruner, a taxicab driver and John Rogers and John Scott, waiters.

"It was explained to us that evidence was wanted to show that Mrs. Stokes had been an inmate of the club," Lee was quoted as having told Wharton.

"The first person I asked, a former housekeeper, told me it was all 'bunk,' but the next six made affidavits."

Frank Hubert, a negro, one of the affidavits, admitted to Mr. Wharton, the latter said, that the woman he knew was "not Mrs. Stokes at all. She was a little girl with bobbed hair and her name was Dorothy, not Helen."

Another of the affidavits, Mrs. Nellie Finnick, an aged negroess, said she had been given $10 "to sign a paper but I can't read and I don't know what was in it."

The names of the other affidavits and the texts of the affidavits were withheld by Prosecutor Wharton.

ITALIANS OF LIMA MAY RUGGERI IN COURT FIGHT

South side Italians will come to the rescue of Joe Ruggeri, it was learned Monday, to enable him to carry on his fight in higher courts. Ruggeri was convicted on statutory charges Friday.

Tony Ruggeri, of Dennison, a brother of the accused, is here and will remain until after a motion for new trial is heard and disposed of.

The court will likely hear the motion Tuesday. It is believed the motion will be overruled and sentence pronounced. According to counsel for Ruggeri, the penalty for the crime is from one to 15 years in prison.

Counsel will carry the case on error to appeals court and ask that bond be fixed for release pending review of the case.

THEATRE ENTRANCE BEING REMODELED BY CITY ORDER

After three weeks of waiting the owners of the Faurot theatre Monday began compliance with orders of the city commissioners to protect the public against drainage of rainwater from the canopy at the entrance to the theatre.

Three weeks ago the city commission directed the city manager to either remedy the condition or the city would remove the structure.

VOTE ON TAFT BILL MAY BE HELD UP BY COURT

Suits pending in the state supreme court will decide whether the Taft and Albaugh taxation laws are to be voted upon at the November 6 election.

Attacks on the signatures obtained in many counties of the state may render the submission of the acts to the voters impossible. Secretary of state Thad Brown, however, is preparing for submission of the acts should they be declared legal.

FARMER AND LANDLORD FIGHT OVER SICK COW; TENANT GETS $10 FINE

C. V. Gossard, 35, farmer, was fined $10 and costs in common pleas court Monday, after he had admitted striking Louis Naus, 65, his landlord, during an altercation over a cow.

Gossard farms for Naus, near Cridersville, Naus providing tools and stock. Naus, while visiting the farm berated Gossard for allowing a milk cow to become sick, court was told. Naus said he would take the animal away.

Words followed and the two men came to blows, Gossard being the winner in the encounter, testimony disclosed. Judge Becker cautioned the defendant to keep his temper in the future, and to have no further trouble.

"I'm leaving the place, judge," said Gossard. "I don't want any more of it."

MAYOR MISTAKES STATE LAW

Lippincott Claims Measure is Interpreted Wrongly

That city officials are mistaken in their contention that all road taxes paid in by the city of Lima must be turned back to the municipality by the county treasurer, is the opinion expressed by Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott Monday.

Mayor Cunningham holds that under Section 5649 the city would receive a large sum from the county. He stated Saturday that he would ask Lippincott to obtain a ruling from Attorney General C. C. Crabbe relative to the act.

The law referred to by Mayor Cunningham is to the effect that all road taxes paid to or collected by the county treasurer shall be paid back to the municipality from which derived.

Lippincott believes after an examination to the section, that it is applicable only to township road taxes. Ottawa-tp has no township government, and pays no township road levy.

Lippincott however will refer the matter to the attorney general as requested, he declared.

NEW BIBLE WORK

Family Night Study Starts at Trinity Thursday

Trinity Family Night, an innovation at the big Market-st Methodist church, will be inaugurated Thursday night. The plan is for a course of Bible study as well as a social hour. Already more than 200 have signified their intention of attending.

The family night plan will take the place of the usual prayer meetings and will continue for 10 weeks when it will be replaced by other interesting features already being worked out.

The program for Thursday night follows:

Social hour 6 o'clock; supper 6:30; Family devotion 7:15 Study classes 7:45; Teacher's Training, Prof. R. E. Offenbauer; Bible Study, Dr. C. A. Rowland Mission Study, Mrs. C. V. Stephens; Children's Hour, Mrs. Winona Vinson Forrer.

WOMAN GETS TWO MONTHS, COMPANION THIRTY DAYS

Mrs. Elta Cole, 50 1-2 Public-av, and G. A. Ladd, 720 N. Main-st, were sentenced Monday to Allen-co jail by Judge Neil R. Poling.

Both pleaded guilty to statutory charges. The woman was given a two months' sentence and the man thirty days.

The fact that Ladd, who is estranged from his wife, has been sending $40 a month to his wife for support of his children impelled the court to leniency in his case.

Mrs. Cole and Ladd were arrested last Thursday night and at arraignment the following day both entered pleas of guilty to charges of adultery.

MONICA HOOKER DIES AT HOSPITAL AFTER ILLNESS

Monica Catherine Hooker, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hooker, died Sunday at 7 p. m. at St. Rita's hospital after an illness of several weeks. Besides the parents, she is survived by a sister, Florence Aris and a brother, Herbert Hooker.

The body was removed to the home of her uncle J. S. Goedde, 624 S. Main-st. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 9:45 a. m. at St. John's Catholic church. Father Plumbachs will officiate. Burial in Gethsemani.

Declares Society Strong Force Leading to Disarmament

WASHINGTON. (Associated Press).—A deep faith in spiritual things, tempered by a hard common sense adapted to the needs of the world is the kind of practical idealism that is represented in the history of America, President Coolidge said today in an address before the annual convention of the American Red Cross. The people, he added, are not likely to adopt any other course.

The idealism of which he spoke, the president said, was illustrated by the men who went to the rescue of Europe when their own liberty and the liberty of the world was in peril, but who after victory was assured, retired from the field, "unencumbered by spoils, independent, unattached and unbought."

RED CROSS QUALITIES

President Coolidge's address, his first formal public utterance, was devoted to praise of the qualities which have made the Red Cross a success. Chief among these, he said, was its practical idealism.

"The American Red Cross is a modern application of an ancient principle," he said. "The idea of charity is very old. It is included in the teachings of the earliest philosophers. It is one of the fundamental doctrines of our Bible. It is a spiritual conception of human relationship. It is life in obedience to the things that are unseen."

Throughout history men have been prone to put their trust in other things and have failed. They have sought for power thru material resources alone. They have thought it might be gained by the accumulation of great riches. They have attempted to rely upon the naked force of armies and navies, conquering by might of the sword. But these forces are not the ultimate rulers of mankind. They are necessary for security, as police and criminal courts and bolts and bars are necessary. But they are negative forces. They do not create, they resist. They are not the ultimate force in the world. They do not make the final determinations among men. Over them all is a higher power.

"Mankind has not yet, cannot yet, discard the use of these forces. It is significant, however, that the great nations have at last agreed upon their limitation. But it is even more significant that civilization is coming to rely more and more upon moral force. It is because the Red Cross has been a practical application of that principle that it has been such a 'tremendous success.' It makes its appeal for support directly to the conscience of mankind. It does not attempt to function thru the direct action of organized government. It does not have in it any element of compulsion. It is the voluntary offering of the people themselves. Whenever, and wherever, an emergency has resulted in human suffering, to the extent of its ability, it administers whatever may be necessary for temporary relief.

HOPE OF PROGRESS

"It is in this direction that there lies the hope of real progress. The ancient ideals of human brotherhood of service, the application of the golden rule, of peace on earth are idle dreams unless they can be translated to practical action. It is necessary on one hand to avoid the illusions of the visionaries and on the other hand the indifference of the selfish. Each individual and each nation owes their first duty to themselves. Beyond that there is no obligation of the strong to serve the weak, but to administer such service in a way that will not destroy or degrade by making mendicants, but will restore by making character. It is the policy which fits in an emergency but realizes that finally each individual and each nation must work out their own destiny."

Don't Let Weak Nerves Steal Your Good Looks

Plain Biotin Phosphate, the one organic phosphate that The Enterprise Drug Store and thousands of good druggists know is best, will turn weak nerves to strong steady ones and restore vigor, energy and ambition to worn out, discouraged men and women. Strengthen your nerves and sharpen up that once keen mind, for without nerve force the beauty of youth will soon disappear.—Adv.

SEED DEMONSTRATIONS HELD BY COUNTY AGENT

Two seed corn selection demonstrations were conducted by County Farm Agent H. J. Ridge Monday.

First demonstration was held on the farm of Henry Mowery at 10 a. m. and the second at Walter Johnson's farm at 1 p. m. Both farms are in Bath-tp.

G. S. Vickers, poultry specialist at the state university, will come to Lima Tuesday to conduct a series of poultry inspections in Adams-tp. Tuesday Vickers will certify the flock of Henry Gratz Richland-tp. and Tuesday afternoon he will hold a rooster selection demonstration at the farm of Jacob Schaefer in Richland-tp.

Wednesday morning Vickers will certify the flock of W. C. Miller, Bath-tp. and at 1 p. m. will hold a rooster selection demonstration at the farm of E. E. McElwain, Jackson-tp.

LINCOLN'S DOUBLE FOUND

Massachusetts Man Said to Look Like Emancipator

WORCESTER, Mass. (Special).—Reincarnation or resemblance? Abraham Lincoln has come to Worcester, certainly in resemblance if not in reincarnation. Fame surrounds a young man named Arthur M. Bennett because he looks like Lincoln, acts like him, talks like him—and, they say, even thinks as Lincoln did.

Startling coincidences such as these have put Bennett under a long observation by Andrew O'Connor, the sculptor who is noted for his statues of Lincoln and who, in his work, has made a study of the Lincoln anatomy.

"From the eyes down," says O'Connor, "the faces and figures of Lincoln and Bennett are nearly identical. Build up the forehead a little and the resemblance is absolutely startling."

Bennett, who has been a printer and a toolmaker, and the past summer a guide at Moosehead Lake in the Maine woods, is called "Ab Lincoln" by fellow workmen in Worcester.

Lincoln was six feet, three inches tall. So is Bennett. And he has the same rugged features, the same strong lines at the mouth, the humorous yet kindly lips, the deep-set eyes, and the almost ungainly length of leg below the knee.

"He walks like Lincoln," says Charles Huntley, 31, one-time soldier and sentry at the White House who often saw Lincoln at close range in the fall of 1864.

Bennett has appeared in several impersonations of Lincoln. And those who know him say that without consciously trying he has acquired the philosophy of Lincoln, which rings true in words and actions. He has the emancipator's shyness, and talks little—and not at all about his resemblance to Lincoln.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ned Cornet, Lenore Hardworth and Bess Gilbert take refuge together on an island. They are shipwrecked. Lenore is engaged to be married to a man named Domsdorf, but she is a free thinker and is not at all in love with him. Domsdorf is a man of great wealth and power, and he is determined to have Lenore. He is willing to do anything to get her, and he is not afraid to use force. He is a cruel and ruthless man, and he is determined to have Lenore at any cost. He is willing to sacrifice everything for her, and he is not afraid to die for her. He is a man of great power and influence, and he is determined to have Lenore at any cost. He is willing to sacrifice everything for her, and he is not afraid to die for her. ## NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"There's no need of going farther," he said in his deep, rumbling voice. "There was no need of even coming here. You seem to be forgetting, you two, where you are—all the things I told you at first." He paused, and his voice had dropped, and the tone was strange and even, dreadful to hear, when he spoke again. "I've evidently been too easy with you," he went on. "I'll see that I correct that fault in the future. You, Ned, made a serious mistake when you interfered in this matter tonight. I'll see if I can't teach you to keep your place. And Bess—long ago I told you that your body and soul were mine—to with what I liked. You seemed to have forgotten—but I intend that you will call it to mind—again."

But Ned still faced him when he paused, eyes steadfast, his face an iron gray in the wan light. His training had been hard and true, and he still found strength to stand erect.

"I want to tell you this—in reply," he answered in the clear, firm voice of one who has mastered fear. "We know well enough what you can do to us. But that doesn't mean that we're going to yield to you—to every one of your evil wishes. Life isn't so pleasant to either of us that we'll submit to everything in order to live. No matter what you do to me—I know what I'll do to you if you try to carry out your wicked designs by force."

Domsdorf eyed him calmly, but the smile of contempt was wholly gone from his lips. "You'll show fight?" he asked.

"With every ounce I've got! You may master me—with every advantage of weapons and physical strength—but you'll have to kill me first. Bess will kill herself before she'll yield to you. You won't be better off—you'll simply have no one to do your trapping for you. It isn't worth it, Domsdorf."

He eyed them a moment, coolly and casually. "Well I want anything, Ned, I want it had enough to pay all I've got for it," he said in a remarkably even tone. "Don't presume that I value your lives so much that I'll turn one step from my course. Besides, Ned—you won't be here!"

Ned's eyes widened, as he tried to read his meaning. Domsdorf laughed softly in the silence. "You won't be here!" he repeated. "You fool—do you think I'd let you get in my way? It will rest as it is tonight. To-morrow morning you start out to tend your traps—and you will tend Bess' lines as well as your own. She will stay here—with me—from now on."

Ned felt his muscles hardening to steel. "I won't leave her to you!"

"You won't? Don't make any mistake on that point. If you are not on your way by sun-up, you get a hundred—from the knout. You won't be able to leave for some time after that—but neither will you be able to interfere with what doesn't concern you. I'll give you a few in the dawn—just as a sample to show what they're like. Nor am I afraid of Bess killing herself. It's cold and dark here, but it's colder and darker—there. She'll stand a lot before she'll do that."

"That's definite?" Ned asked. "The truest words I ever spoke. I've never gone back on a promise yet."

"And believe me, I won't go back on mine. If that's all you have to say—"

"That's quite all. Think it over—you'll find it isn't so bad. And now—good night."

He bowed to them, in mock politeness. Then he turned back into his cabin.

For a moment his two prisoners stood inert, utterly motionless in the wan light. Ned started to turn to her, still held by his own dark thoughts, but at the first glance of her white, set face, he whirled in the most breathless amazement. It was in no way the stricken, terrified countenance that he had seen a few moments before. The lips were firm, the eyes deep and strange; even in the half-light he could see her look of inexorable purpose.

Some great resolve had come to her—some sweeping emotion that might be akin to hope. Was she planning suicide? Was that the meaning of this new look of iron resolution in her face? He could conceive of no other explanation; in self-inflicted death alone lay deliverance from Domsdorf's lust. He dared not hope for any happier freedom. He reached groping hands to hers. "You don't mean"—he gasped, hardly able to make his lips move in speech—"you don't intend—?"

"To kill myself? Not yet, by a long way." The girl's hand slipped cautiously out from the pocket of her jacket, showing what seemed to be a small, square box of tin. But the light was too dim for him to make out the words on the paper label. "I got this from the shelf—just as we left the cabin."

The hopeful tones in her voice was the "happiest sound Ned had heard since he had come to the island.

"What is it?" he whispered. "Nothing very much—but yet—a chance for freedom. Come into the cabin where we can scratch a match."

They moved into the newer hut of logs, and there Bess showed him the humble article in which lay her hopes. It was merely a tin of fine snuff from among Domsdorf's personal supplies.

XXVIII

Talking in an undertone, not to be heard thru the log walls, Bess and Ned heard their hasty plans for deliverance.

Here, in the cabin they occupied, the assault must be made. The reason was simply that their plan was defeated to master Domsdorf in the squaw's presence.

The plan, on perfection, was really very simple. As soon as Lenore came, she would be sent back to the cabin to bring Domsdorf. She would need no further excuse than that Bess had asked to see him; Ned's knowledge of the brute's psychology told him that.

Ned would be waiting in the new cabin when Lenore and Domsdorf returned. He would immediately excuse himself and pass out the door, at the same instant that Bess extended a chair for Domsdorf. And the instant that he was seated, Bess would dash a handful of thely blinding snuff into his eyes.

Ned's age leaned just without the cabin door. Domsdorf would notice it as he went in; otherwise his suspicions might be aroused. And in his first instant of agony and blindness, Ned would seize the weapon, dash back thru the door, and make the assault.

They had scarcely perfected the plan before Lenore appeared, on the way to her cot. Just an instant she halted, her face and golden head a glory in the soft light, as she regarded their glittering eyes.

Ned moved toward her, reaching for her hands. For a breath he gazed into her lovely face. "Bess wants you to go—and tell Domsdorf—to come here," he told her. His voice was wholly steady, every word clearly enunciated; if anything, he spoke somewhat more softly and evenly than usual. "Just tell him that she wants to see him."

She took her eyes from his, glancing about with unmistakable apprehension.

Her searching eyes suddenly turned in fascinated horror to Bess. Standing near the open door, so that the room might not be filled with the dust of the snuff and thus convey a warning to Domsdorf, she was emptying the contents of the snuff-box into her handkerchief. Her eyes gleamed under her brows, and her hands were wholly steady. Lenore shivered a little, her hands pressing Ned's.

"What does it mean—?"

"Liberty! That's what it means, if the plan goes thru." For the first time Ned's voice revealed suppressed emotion. Liberty! He spoke the word as a devout man speaks of God. "It's the only chance—now or never," he went on with perfect coldness. "You've got to hold up and do your share—I know you can. If we succeed—and we've got every chance—it's freedom, escape from this island and Domsdorf. If we fail, it's like Bess would dash a handful of thely blinding snuff into his eyes.

Her searching eyes suddenly turned in fascinated horror to Bess. Standing near the open door, so that the room might not be filled with the dust of the snuff and thus convey a warning to Domsdorf, she was emptying the contents of the snuff-box into her handkerchief. Her eyes gleamed under her brows, and her hands were wholly steady. Lenore shivered a little, her hands pressing Ned's.

"What does it mean—?"

"Liberty! That's what it means, if the plan goes thru." For the first time Ned's voice revealed suppressed emotion. Liberty! He spoke the word as a devout man speaks of God. "It's the only chance—now or never," he went on with perfect coldness. "You've got to hold up and do your share—I know you can. If we succeed—and we've got every chance—it's freedom, escape from this island and Domsdorf. If we fail, it's like Bess would dash a handful of thely

Ned's age leaned just without the cabin door. Domsdorf would notice it as he went in; otherwise his suspicions might be aroused. And in his first instant of agony and blindness, Ned would seize the weapon, dash back thru the door, and make the assault.

They had scarcely perfected the plan before Lenore appeared, on the way to her cot. Just an instant she halted, her face and golden head a glory in the soft light, as she regarded their glittering eyes.

Ned moved toward her, reaching for her hands. For a breath he gazed into her lovely face. "Bess wants you to go—and tell Domsdorf—to come here," he told her. His voice was wholly steady, every word clearly enunciated; if anything, he spoke somewhat more softly and evenly than usual. "Just tell him that she wants to see him."

She took her eyes from his, glancing about with unmistakable apprehension.

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HER SON, JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

My Dear John:

I am sending you the enclosed letter written to me by Leslie, that you may see how I have been insulted by that thoughtless and selfish girl who has married. I also want you to see what she has written for I am sure it is not true that you have kept from her my letters to you.

Surely nothing that I have written you could "fret" a high-minded and dutiful wife. It might however bring a thoughtless girl to her senses and make her remember that perhaps there was a sad old woman somewhere in the world to whom she might give a modicum of thought.

Of course I cannot believe her when she says she will do anything to make me happy, for surely she must know that I have not been happy since your marriage with her. She has never invited me to her house except in the most perfunctory way. She has only written me a very few letters and I'm sure she has kept you from writing me, tho I must say, John, you never were a very good correspondent.

If this girl ever has a boy of her own—I do not for one moment consider that nameless child you have taken into your house can be to either of you a real son—I am sure she will understand what it means to be neglected.

I am your mother, John. I am the woman who brought you into the world—the mother who cared for you all thru your tender years. What can any woman who never met you until after you had reached manhood do that will equal the sacrifices of your mother?

HURRAY, OUR TROUBLES ARE SOLVED!

THE old town has been out of luck in the matter of finances for those many months. But our troubles are over. That is, they will be over when the young Danas of our contemporary see the adaptation of their latest move for the common good, according to their own admission.

The boy editors, having a brilliant idea, ceased temporarily, to build union depots, eliminate grade crossings, settle street car strikes, turn fair grounds into parks and buy swimming pools to adopt a plan unique in municipal history and install for our city a bifurcated system of government to include what would correspond to our old council and our new city commission with the former the boss.

It works out fine on paper. You simply elect a budget commissioner from each ward and turn the finances over to the body thus chosen. Then your city commission becomes a rubber stamp and your expert city manager an errand boy, to say nothing of the other executives.

Lima adopted the commission-manager form of government to put business in government. The people chose business men to run their city and everything considered, they have been doing a pretty fair job.

If we were a disgruntled politician, we would be for the Gazette's plan to kill the commission-manager system here. But since we are not, we would prefer to let the taxpayers choose their system of government. They chose the present plan and they can throw it out when they are ready. But we don't think they will kill it with our contemporary's plan. The public isn't strong for underhand methods.

Some Lima women have found that you can't keep a secret and tell it too.

YOUR WORDS

HOW many words do you know the meaning of? The average person can read and understand from 8000 to 10,000 different words. Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly makes this estimate. He's managing editor of the New Standard Dictionary.

Quite a different matter is the number of words we have at the tip of our tongues and use in talking, compared with words we grasp when we read them.

Very few of us use more than 700 words in talking, according to some authorities who have checked up.

Shakespeare's vocabulary included about 24,000 words.

Woodrow Wilson, in 75 speeches, used 6221 words and Dr. Vizetelly estimates that Wilson in his writings used a vocabulary of at least 60,000 words.

WORDS change style the same as clothes, Dr. Vizetelly comments. He illustrates by pointing out that the sport who wore a silk shirt was formerly called a dude, but the word "dude" has gone out of style, now that the rank and file of the people can afford silk shirts.

Changing word styles are more evident in slang. "Put on a little speed" changed to "Make it snappy," then to "Jazz it up." Once she was a "flirt," now a "vamp." The "cop" of a former generation now is called a "bull."

In another century no one will be able to read one of George Ade's "Fables in Slang" and understand it without using a slang dictionary, for slang rapidly becomes obsolete and forgotten.

Most of the short stories by O. Henry are similarly handicapped.

RICHARD HUELOT compiled the first English dictionary in 1552. The supply of words has grown enormously since then. Contemplate a modern dictionary, growing rapidly to suitcase size the printed in small type on thin paper and it is hard to believe that such a maze of words are made up of varying combinations of only 26 letters of the alphabet.

The finest shades of emotion, the infinite ramifications of human thought, as well as everything in our three dimensional material world—all these can be expressed accurately and graphically by changes in the mathematical arrangement of 26 alphabetical letters.

The simple little alphabet is right up near the head of the list of greatest inventions.

Taking a drink of the average Lima bootleg booze will not drive a man crazy. It doesn't have to.

TIC OR HABIT

In the presence of ladies or a clergyman the most profane man will talk for an indefinite time and never utter an oath, tho in his ordinary conversation he swears like a trooper and quite unconsciously.

A tic is a little less than a spasm, a little more than a habit. The word tic comes from the French. We have no good English synonym. The movements of chorea (St. Vitus' dance) differ from those of tic in this respect, namely, that they cannot be controlled by the patient, whereas a tic can be controlled by an effort, just as a habit of swearing can. Take, for example, a boy with a habit of twitching or shrugging one shoulder; sit before him with a pin and let him understand that every twitch will be punctured with one pin prick, and he will control that shoulder tic for a long time, tho ordinarily it comes several times a minute. If it were chorea such punishment would only make the twitching worse.

A tic, unlike St. Vitus' dance, is usually limited to a single muscle or group of muscles. Here are some common tics: Blinking one or both eyes, winking or squinting; snuffling, clearing the throat; clucking or making other queer sounds with the lips or tongue; twitching one shoulder, whistling; nodding the head, uttering inopportune swear words or obscenities.

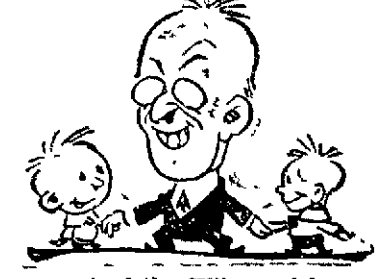

The treatment of a tic must be by physical education. Educative exercises supervised by a competent physical director who has been trained in his work by years of schooling, such as the Y. M. C. A. school of physical training at Springfield gives. A few weeks of careful management of this sort will overcome most tics completely.

NEW ORLEANS

(By HARRY HUNT.)
WASHINGTON. — (Special.)—Almost a family reunion was staged out at Woodrow Wilson's home last week, when Francis Bowes Sayre and his family dropped in to say adieu before sailing for faraway Siam.

With Sayre and his wife, Eleanor youngest of the Wilson girls, came their three youngsters to break the sedate peace of the big brick house at 2340 S-st.

This visit with his grandchildren was perhaps the most momentous thing that has come into the ex-president's life since he left the White House. It meant a lot more to him than the calls of visiting dignitaries and is said to have given him his happiest week in many years.

To round out the party, Miss Margaret Wilson, now an advertising counselor in New York, ran down for three days.

Sayre, who has held a political economy professorship at Harvard, has undertaken to straighten out Siam's governmental economics, as the government's "financial adviser."

THE Wilson home's vicinity is becoming quite a residential center for notabilities.

Mrs. Harding has leased an apartment within a stone's throw of the Wilsons', overlooking the former president's garden.

Herbert Hoover lives only two doors east of the Wilsons on S-st.

SENATOR OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD'S right to a try at the presidency is set forth in a letter I recently received from Governor William Brandon of Alabama. After what Brandon tells me—and doubtless is telling others—there is no gainsaying the fact that a foundation for popularizing the Underwood candidacy has been laid.

Underwood, it seems, is a great-grandnephew of George Rogers Clark, the explorer, to whom may be credited the small part of the opening of the great northwest.

Also while Underwood was not born in a log cabin, he owns one—up in a mountain pass on the Tennessee-Kentucky border, where he sometimes spends his summers getting "back to nature" and renewing the pioneer spirit in his veins.

Underwood, says Governor Brandon, has "the sanity, courage and robust purity of mind of the pioneer from whom he descended. His grandfather, a staunch youngster of 10 years, marched with his uncle, George Rogers Clark, through a pass in the Tennessee mountains to Kentucky at a point within rifle-shot of the senator's summer cabin of today.

CRISIS

There are moments of terror and dread
Which rob us of reason and sense;
Into every man's scheme, into every man's dream,
Comes the time when the struggle grows tense,
And the thing you would do with a grin,
With nothing at stake on the shot,
Is not easy to do when the prize that's in view
Hangs on whether you make it or not.

But how do you stand in a crisis?
When your skies are all fast
Have courage to spare,
But how do you battle the rain?
And what of that moment of doubt,
When to falter means failure to you?
With your nerves in control, and
Go for your goal
And prove what you're able to do
It's the crisis which makes you break,
It's that difficult time of suspense
When the end is in doubt, and
You're fighting it out
With nerves that are tingling and tense;
Then if your hand trembled and

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of it; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 28 per cent. Realizing this Mrs. Carrie Moss of 1714 Church st., Lynchburg Va., Mr. Louis C. ## Locals Find Delphos Pitcher Easy Slam Ball Over Lot Scoring A 9 To 3 Win

Fish Pitches Winning Ball While Locals Touch Tilton Hard Enough To Win

(BY FRANKLYN DOAN)

Maybe Honest Ab didn't state it in exactly three words, but nevertheless it is an established certainty that you can fool some of the batters part of the time and all the batters some of the time but you can't fool all the batters all the time.

One Guy Tilton, hailing from the city of Delphos, confident and cocksure that he could set the Independents down for a fourth defeat learned that the above "proverb" is quite true in the old game of baseball. On the side it might be said that Lima won, 9-3.

Friend, Tilton was quite generous Sunday not seeming to care in particular just how many runs the Limas made. He served the bean up in fine style and in most cases the locals slammed it back, only farther back, sometimes to the fence other times thru the infield.

It might be remembered that the Independents fell before Delphos three times, winning but once this season, but Sunday's game demonstrated that the canal lads are not quite in the class of the Independents counting the present offensive power of the locals.

The Lima boys outplayed their Delphos neighbors in every department of the game. Whether it was base running or shoestring catches; they were right there, with the gray and the excellent all around play of the locals while in the field caused the downfall of the "Oracians" to some extent.

At the bat Lima's attack was almost twice as strong as that of the opposition. Fourteen hits, each one of which carried with it a sting that would cause any fielder, no little worry, were marked up for the Lima boys.

The good thing about these hits is that all of them were smacked out in the nick of time. Whenever a single would score a man a single was exactly the thing that issued. When a couple, of singles meant a couple of runs, Tilton was slapped for a duo of base hits.

After the sixth inning had rolled around, Tilton was feeling pretty tough from outward indications so Glenn Shrider gave Guy a meal-ticket and sent the water boy into the shower room to turn on the warm water. So Tilton left the pitcher's box and Simpson, former Waite High school pitcher, became the keystone of the victors.

SIMPSON PITCHED FINE
He held Lima to one hit in the next two innings. The Lima boys were probably quite tired and seemed rather reluctant to nick the second hurler for more than one base swats. He served up some pretty mean stuff in his short debut. If he had pitched the whole game there might have been a different story to tell.

The first innings meant two runs for Lima even if but one hit was made. Poorman walked and got to third when Patrick did his jumpy tactics on a liner off Gilhooley's bat. Shaffer slammed a single over the opposing infield; Poorman and Gilhooley scoring on the play.

Delphos came back in the first of the second with blood in its optics and scored two evening the score. Remlinger got to first on Heath's bungle, to third on Patrick's single and both scored on Bonifas' single to center. Costello made a brave attempt to get the ball but slipped on a muddy spot in the outfield.

Lima came back with two more runs and from then on they were never in danger. Delphos got one in the fifth but it didn't do much good.

Fish, former Ohio State star, hurled his third win for Lima in as many starts. He worked hard in his typical manner and had the Delphos batters swinging in vain. Fish is the sort of pitcher that makes an asset to a club and he should win several more games for the locals this year.

DEMPSEY FINDS A CONQUEROR

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Five thousand "home folks" greeted Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, when he stepped off the train in his native city. A parade formed and the champion was escorted thru the business section where another 5,000 had gathered to get a glimpse of the conqueror of Luis Angel Firpo, "Wild Bull from the Pampas."

When Dempsey's train came to the depot, the band struck up "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and as the champion left the train the band began "Hail the Conquering Hero." In the crowd Dempsey spied his mother. Disregarding all committees he rushed over to her. His father was the next one to greet the champion.

Dempsey admitted before the crowd that there was one person could lick him.

As the champion took his mother in his arms, she said, "Jack, you are still my boy. I used to lick you and I still can."

The eyes of the champion dimmed as he said:

"Yes, mother, you always can."

WHO ARE THE GREATEST MANAGERS IN BASEBALL TODAY?

BY BILLY EVANS

Who are the greatest managers you have played against in major league baseball? When that question was put to Eddie Collins, world's greatest second baseman, he replied: "The four greatest managers I have ever played against are Connie Mack, John McGraw, Bill Carrigan, and Tris Speaker."

"Under Mack I learned most of the baseball that I know. As a developer of ball players, Mack is without compare. Mack is like a father to his players. He treats everybody with the greatest consideration. A ball player who cannot get along with Connie Mack and progress under his direction is simply impossible. SYSTEMS DIFFER WIDELY.

"McGraw's system might be called the direct opposite of Mack's, but equally effective. McGraw dominates the player, his word is final. On the other hand Mack allows for a certain amount of initiative, and with a great many of his players permits them to shift the play if they consider it advisable.

"I have always had the greatest

As A Matter of Fact

BY HARRY BRADBURY
Sports Editor.

Amateur baseball of today is being played with a professional knowledge, but mediocre skill. The game is as fast technically in the bushes as it is on the sand lots of the large city, or as it is on the professional diamond, and therefore it is professional at the source. To listen to a fan fest is to listen to the playing of a certain great star. They will talk of the technical style of his playing and in their practice will adapt his style as much as possible. The great player is their teacher, their inspiration.

And this inspiration is deep rooted in the minds of the American youth. Point to the city that isn't baseball mad and you'll point to a cemetery.

And the young farmer knows the game and is as keenly enthusiastic as his city brother. As a matter of fact many of the stars of baseball are countrybreds.

The college team is boosted as near professional strength as it is possible to make it. If the regular enrollment is lacking then boys who can play are solicited. The club has the professional taint without the abstract guilt.

College teams are coached by professional or ex-professional ball players, which indicates the endeavor for fast ball. It is the line set by professional ball that is the goal of college games. They are satisfied with no other result. It is the medium of their ideals and it is taught and practiced, and all the time there goes on a profound study of the game; inside play; technical perfection is the goal for which they are striving.

And through the professionally and amateur ranks there is no particular social distinction of the individual players. Social status is the same. Every professional team in the country can boast of students of the sciences, of law and of medicine. These students freely mingle with members of the team who have no such ideals. But they are as one in an intricate study of the game; they are of a common level. There is no stigma against the professional ball player in other pursuits, the future is an open course and society bids welcome to the player who has gained notoriety on the diamond. He is received with open arms among the highest and lowest.

But the game continues going faster and faster and this brings us back to the thought that a city without its professional representation in some league has a barrier towards progressiveness. The sombre aspect of all business and no sport is indicative that the commonwealth is not functioning, it seems undemocratic and un-American, there is something vital that is missing. It is necessary that we be represented in sporting ideals as well as in business pursuits. That is an important principle of America's greatness.

A great commonwealth without its sports is like a great newspaper without advertisements. And this is a strong point for the enterprising businessman. Fame travels swifter than business, a strong ball

Bunkey's Call Brings Out Big Class

Forty five students responded to Coach Bunkey's call for football candidates at Bluffton College, Wednesday.

The showing made by the men led Coach Bunkey to predict that, even tho this is Bluffton's first year on the gridiron, she will not occupy the mourner's bench.

Enthusiasm is at high pitch. Later this week Bunkey will split his men into squads and practice games will be in order.

The first conference game will be played at Bluffton with Bowling Green on October 13. The next game will be with Heidelberg University at Tiffin on October 20. Defiance College will play Bluffton at Bluffton. The date has not been set.

Under the tentative schedule Bluffton was to play at Bowling Green but it was decided to have Bluffton open its season at home. Coach Bunkey wrote Bowling Green Wednesday changing the place.

No date remains open on the conference football schedule of Bluffton. This will be filled perhaps yet this week.

"I am more than pleased with the outlook for Bluffton College on the gridiron," said Coach Bunkey. "Even tho this is our first year in conference football we'll give a good account of ourselves."

Complete new outfits have been provided for the players. The basketball season opens at Bluffton December 20 with Ohio Northern.

LEADERS FAIL

Bobo Ruth, of the New York Yankees, and Williams, of the Philadelphia Nationals, each with 37 home runs for the season, went thru the week without clotting a four-base hit. Kenneth Williams, of the St. Louis Browns, was in third place in the two major leagues with 23 homers, and Fournier, of Brooklyn, was fourth with 21. Players in the two leagues who have cracked out 12 or more home runs follow:

American League—Ruth, New York, 37; Williams, St. Louis, 37; Williams, St. Louis, 28; Heilmann, Detroit, 17; Hauser, Philadelphia, 17; Brewer, Cleveland, 16; Speaker, Cleveland, 15; Mannus, St. Louis, 14; J. Harris, Boston, 13; Tobin, St. Louis, 12. National League—Fournier, Brooklyn, 21; Meusel, New York, 19; Miller, Chicago, 17; Hornsby, St. Louis, 17; Kelly, New York, 16; Tierney, Philadelphia, 15; Traynor, Pittsburgh, 12; Priddy, New York, 12; Friberg, Chicago, 12.

Duncan Helps Luque Down Robins As Reds Sweep Series McGraw's Giants Play Today

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)

NEW YORK—With the end of a very hard road, they have been pounding all thru the season, in sight, the New York Giants have two chances, Monday and Tuesday to grab the few points that will virtually clinch the National league pennant.

With a lead of four games, the world's champions of 1921 and 1922 will engage in a pair of games with the Reds in Cincinnati and if the New Yorkers have their established ability to do their best when it is most needed they will leave the Ohio city with the pennant.

As it now stands, the Giants have to win only one half of their remaining games to cop the pennant, even if the Reds should not suffer a defeat in their remaining six games.

If the Giants take both games from the Reds, they cannot lose the pennant, but if the Reds should pop out with one of their winning fits, the McGraw clan will be in a most serious situation.

While eight games remain on the schedule for the Giants, it is possible that they will have to play only seven of them. One game is a postponed game with the St. Louis Cardinals and unless it becomes of vital importance in deciding the pennant it is likely that the game will be cancelled.

Officials of the two leagues and the commission will meet tomorrow "some place in the east" to make arrangements for the series. The opening date, the scene of the first games and the scale of prices will be decided upon.

While there has been much demand for lower prices and some change in the method of selling tickets, it is unlikely that the magnates will agree to charge any less than last year and it is probable that the same system will be followed in selling the tickets.

Many complaints were voiced last season over the ticket arrangement which forced any one desirous of a reserved seat to buy either three tickets for the games in which the Giants or the Yankees were acting as the home club or six tickets for the whole series.

New Yorkers found it possible to form clubs and buy a set of the tickets, but the visitors in the city who had only two or three days in which they could see the games, experienced trouble in disposing of their extra tickets.

While the Giants are fighting it

DANGEROUS AT BAT

Most big league twirlers are poor batsmen. But this does not hold good for Pitcher Thurston of the Chicago White Sox.

He's such a dangerous man at the bat that the White Sox are seriously thinking of converting him into an outfielder or trying him out at first base.

Manager Kid Gleason of the Chicago White Sox considers Thurston one of the best relief pitchers in the big show. Had he a better fast ball he would be a regular starter for the White Sox. He has a most deceptive fadeaway, a good curve and a fine change of pace, but his fast ball lacks a bit of the old "zip."

Thurston is the pitcher who recently retired the Philadelphia team on nine successive strikes in one inning, all of the pitches being called or struck at and missed.

Thurston is a good hitter and good batters are scarce. The White Sox lack a punch and it wouldn't be at all surprising if the team tried to use Thurston at some position where it could take advantage of his hitting.

Army Corps To Play Polo At Dayton

DETROIT—(Associated Press)—The sixth army corps team will meet the Miami Valley fives booters of Dayton, O. here Tuesday as the result of the two semi-final matches in the consolation play in the mid-western championship polo tournament Monday. The army team defeated the Gold Hats of Detroit 11 to 6 and the Dayton team won out the Carraner Polo and Hunt Club of Toledo, Ohio, by a score of 5 to 4.

Play for the Gold Hats cup, the consolation trophy, will be staged as a curtain raiser to the final match for the mid-western championship here Tuesday afternoon. The championship match will be between the Onwentsia club of Chicago and the Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club of Dayton.

HEPHERD SONGS EXPLAINED
Clean Tells of Bible Scenes at Trinity Methodist
SCRIBES NATIVE LAND
Language and Customs Have changed Very Little

Through his experiences as a shepherd boy on the hills of his native Galilee, Stephen A. Babarash interpreted the shepherd and pastoral scenes of the Bible to an appreciative congregation at Trinity Methodist church, Sunday evening.
He spoke briefly of his life in Galilee and said that 2,000 years has not changed in 2,000 years, that his native people have been of the same in their language and it is entirely religious and is because the shepherd songs of the Bible are all in that language they must not be interpreted literally or in the secular language.
Generally the Bible does not tell us what it says but what it means," he said. Then he explained by saying that that in the language of the Galileans, people do speak direct but in pictures and metaphors and it is in this manner, said that the shepherd songs of the Bible, as in fact all of the Bible, must be studied and interpreted.
From Nazareth, the shepherd was called at the age of 13 years to shepherd his father's flock of 35 sheep and from then he came to America some years he was a shepherd.
He talked interestingly of how named each of his sheep and how he knew his voice and his calls. He explained statements of the Bible that, "My sheep know my voice." He said that Christ's philosophy of immortality was not entered from the Holy City, nor walls of Jericho, nor the hills of Galilee, but from the shores of the sea of Galilee.
He said that Christ was never de of Galilee and as Galileans all more or less shepherds or men, Christ always spoke in picture language of the Galilean shepherds. Christ's greatest and was given to Peter, he when Christ said, "Feed my sheep" and he explained this by of his shepherd boy experience to illustrate how much the on the hills of Galilee are de on the shepherd to guide to green pastures and beside waters and away from poisonous herbs, and reptiles.
The sermon was an in-ation of the twenty-third the speaker pointing out each one of the sentences when studied in the light of shepherd boy's work among his of Galilee.
OF STAFF
instance, he called attention sentence, "Thy rod and thy they comfort me." He said the entire psalm should be d as a word picture of a flock ep, talking to their shepherd. Shepherd's staff he said was to down the poisonous herbs that sheep and also to stun the the while the rod was used to be serpents. Then he explained the rod and staff of the psalm David's method of telling how Christian teachings comfort be- they are weapons to drive the evil.
king another portion of the 1, "Thou anointest my head oil," the speaker pointed out when a snake or reptile had a sheep the shepherd first his own lips sucked the poison the wound in the head of the and then poured olive oil on round and this quickly healed the injury.
the passage "Thou leadest me still waters," the speaker t meant that the religion of Christ is a guide to better impulses. He brought out that the river Jordan was a fall of 1,800 feet in 140 miles and was too swift for the sheep to go down to drink as the shepherds dug ditches from the river back into the land and as the water moved back into those ditches it became still but not stagnant and then the shepherds led their flocks to the still waters where the sheep drank in safety.

Also the Galilean spoke over an hour and the entire service lasted two hours. He held the closest attention of the congregation. Through his sermon he emphasized the thought that Christ as the shepherd leads his flock to the fold and there is but one gate into the fold, literally for the sheep of Galilee and figuratively to heaven and that door is thru acknowledgement of Christ as the shepherd.

OHIO FEDERATION OF LABOR MEETS
Branches, in Session at Mansfield, Elect Officers

MANSFIELD — (United Press)—Delegates to the Ohio State Federation of Labor convention today began drafting organized labor policies in Ohio for the year.
The state convention opened Sunday with meetings of the federation executive board and credentials committee, following conferences of five craft unions and the Ohio State building trades council.
The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, with 105 Ohio locals, Sunday adopted resolutions calling on all its members to hold as many joint meetings with other unions as possible.
The Railroad Clerks elected these state officers:
Charles King, Fostoria, president;
F. M. Kirkendall Dayton, vice-president;
Wade Shurtliff, Cleveland, secretary-treasurer.
A. A. Stephens, Columbus, F. W. Grosser, Cleveland; Charles J. Young, Cincinnati, Miss Helen Hill, Lancaster, and C. P. Houlette, Niles, executive board.
The Machinists Union of Ohio outlined plans for carrying out its membership campaign. Adam Dryle, Toledo, was president; R. V. Whitehead, Elyria, secretary-treasurer; J. E. Sullivan, Columbus, A. M. Scaglione, Cleveland, and Joseph Haering, Cincinnati, executive board.
The Stationary and Hoisting Engineers which opened a meeting here Sunday, resumed sessions behind closed doors.
The engineers elected the following officers:
J. Q. Huddel, Cincinnati, president;
C. O. Myers, chief examiner of stationary engineers of Ohio, secretary-treasurer.
A. E. Stoughton, Mansfield, vice president.

U. S. SUPERVISION OF COAL URGED
Recommendation is Made by Fuel Commission
SUBMITTED TO PRESIDENT
Proposals Offered for Protection of Public Interests

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—Declaring that to deal effectively with problems of the national coal industry, the government must go "beyond continuous fact-finding and publicity," the coal commission in its final report to President Coolidge, recommends government supervision of the industry thru exercise of its interstate commerce powers. Direct responsibility for such supervision, the commission believes, should be lodged in a specially created division of the interstate commerce commission, operating thru a system of licensing to include dealers as well as producers.
Reiterating many of the recommendations in its previous reports on special phases of the industry the commission, in the report published today, summarized the basic evils which government regulation, it believed, should largely mitigate. At the same time the commission declared "the largest opportunity for putting the coal industry in order lies with the industry itself."
The fundamental evil in the anthracite industry, the report said, lies in its monopolistic feature. To protect the public interest in this regard, the commission suggested the levy of a grade tax on royalties and differential profits. While this would not lower the price of coal, the commission said, it would secure a public revenue without increasing the price. In the availability of substitutes for hard coal, it is said, the public holds in its own hand the main remedy for extortionate prices.
Over-development, irregularity of operation and uneconomic distribution as to rail carriage were summarized as basic evils of the bituminous industry. A federal supervision policy, the report said, should include not only a natural limitation of marketing area by the adjustment of freight rates, but also encouragement for consolidation of coal companies under conditions adequately protecting the public interest.

SHOWDOWN NEAR IN OKLAHOMA
Time for Legislators to Assemble Only 48 Hours Off

OKLAHOMA CITY — (Associated Press)—The hours separating the Oklahoma legislative and executive clash narrowed down to forty-eight today with the line drawn taunt between Governor J. C. Walton and those members of the house of representatives who seek to indict him as the preliminary step toward impeachment proceedings.
Today brought more witnesses and more testimony at both the Tulsa and Oklahoma City military courts of inquiry. Charges of riot were expected to be made in Oklahoma City against participants in a lashing party alleged to have been led by N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma Ku Klux Klan.
Jewett's trial on a charge of riot probably will be postponed tomorrow to permit additional information being obtained by the military against other supposed members of the party.
TROOPS ON GUARD
Wednesday upon the house of representatives is called to meet in extraordinary session despite the armed guardsmen who still pace before the bronze doors of house and senate chambers with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets.
Federal court action seeking a restraining order is threatened by the house members if the executive attempts to block the session by force or throw any of the members in jail for the remainder of his more than three years term in office. The governor would welcome such a legal test, he said last night. Such action may come between now and Wednesday noon, the hour set for the house call.
Governor Walton has assailed the house session as a gathering of "Klan dragons to oust any official who dares to block their path."
He asserted that a majority of the members who signed the call were or had been members of the invisible empire.

700 ARE KILLED IN BULGARIAN WAR
Government Losing Ground in Fight Against Insurrectionists
MORE THAN 4,000 WOUNDED
Town Captured by Agrarians and Communists

ATHENS — (United Press)—Bulgarian government forces have lost 700 dead and more than 4,000 wounded in attacks against the agrarian insurrectionists, dispatches from Salonika said today.
Messages from Philippopolis said the government forces were losing ground over the whole of southern and northeastern Bulgaria. The king signed a decree in Sofia, dissolving the chamber of deputies and calling new elections within two months. The agrarians and communists, after bitter fighting, have captured Plevna and raised the red flag, an unconfirmed dispatch from Sofia said.
Other dispatches from Salonika reported a Serbian concentration on the Bulgarian frontier and said the troop movement was being hastened for the purpose of invading Bulgaria and occupying her colonies at the first opportunity.
Bloody fighting continued today in several sections of Bulgaria, the dispatches said.
GERMANY DIVIDED ON RUHR POLICY
BERLIN — (Associated Press)—Altho the abandonment of passive resistance has not yet been decreed, its official termination is believed to be not far away and already there is speculation as to the attitude of the Communists declared that to give up Each opposes surrender, the former asserting thru its leader, Dr. Hergt, that it "will have no part in any scheme of capitulation," while the Communists declare that to give up the Ruhr fight would be a concession to capitalism, both German and French.
Former military leaders feel that there will be no trouble from either Communist or Nationalist sources. One political leader expressed the opinion that any trouble would be local and of short duration.
Nevertheless the government is known to be taking steps to prevent any outbreaks.

PRICELESS RELIEF FOR THIS MAN
Awful Stomach and Nerve Troubles Are Relieved by the Plant Juice
FELT AGED AT 28 YEARS

MR. ARTHUR R. GRABAU
street, Newark, N. J., while talking with The Plant Juice Man a few days ago.
"For seven years my stomach had been in miserable condition. I suffered from gas, bloating and pains and had to be mighty careful about what I ate for it was out of the question for me to eat anything fried or with grease in it. My nerves were so bad that I was almost a nervous wreck and, in fact, this condition was diagnosed as a light attack of St. Vitas dance. I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep. Besides this, my bowels were constipated; liver was inactive and my kidneys and bladder were so weak that I would have to get up three or four times at night. I had headaches, bilious spells and dizziness and my skin was almost a copper color with dark rings under my eyes. I am only 28 but I was beginning to feel like an old man and my condition was worrying me."
"I tried many different medicines but never got any real results and then I found your Plant Juice and as I said, the relief I have derived from five bottles of your medicine has been priceless. The indigestion, gas and painful bloating have left me. I eat well, enjoy my meals and my wife enjoys to see me eat so heartily. My liver and kidneys work right now; bladder is stronger so that I do not have to get up at night and my skin has cleared and the rings under my eyes are about gone. And that awful nervous twitching has been relieved so that now I sleep soundly all through the night and get up mornings ready for my work. In short, I am like an altogether different man."
Plant Juice is sold in Lima at Hunter's drug stores at 49 Public Square and Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.—Adv.

SHIES FROM RUT

(By GERTRUDE GILLHAM)
ERNEST TORRENCE, a comparatively new but potent name in the film world, has been in pictures long enough to prove that his phenomenal success is no mere accident.

He's compassed a wide enough range of roles to demonstrate that his is a native versatility.

His studio history shows that he's not going to be shoved around as an acquiescent pawn by producers and directors. Probably more than any of the near great in pictures, Torrence has displayed a vigorous, resilient mind not to be swayed from his goal.

That goal, that ambition, negatively expressed, is to keep clear of being shoved into a niche, of being tagged and used as a "heavy" because his heavy roles have been rich to the verge of genius, or of being constantly cast as a comedian because in this field he has shown equal facility.

This is an imminent danger of limitation for Torrence because in each of half a dozen splendid characterizations he has in turn seemed to catalogue himself as precisely the man for the part. And in Hollywood when you do a thing well, you're in peril of having to do that thing forever or until your vogue wanes.

This tall, genial, canny Scot has a quality of courage which has kept him clear of such movie backwash and stagnation. And it will be interesting to watch his promising career because he himself is so definitely responsible for it, despite his status as an employee of Famous Player-Lasky.

Having made his comedy debut as "Cousin Ebert" in Harry Leon Wilson's satire, "Ruggles of Red Gap," a James Cruze production for Lasky, Torrence is now in New York enacting the part of a country preacher with Glenn Hunter in "West of the Water Tower."

These representations, each unlike anything he's done before, follow his portrayal of the King of beggars in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and the Glimpse in Tourneur's "Brass Bottle," which in turn succeeded his sinister role in "Tollable David" and the masterly handling of the scout in "The Covered Wagon."

It was his inimitable villainy in "Tollable David" and "Broken chains" that threatened to tie him down to heavies. A loss of the troubled actor would have been a disaster.

"In my first few pictures I did heavies," explained Torrence, with that mild manner which may a director as mistaken for self-deprecation. "Every casting director had me tagged for that. As I might I couldn't get them to cast me for other parts. Finally I came to Hollywood and Jesse Lasky gave me a chance at wider range of parts. I don't want to be a heavy or a comedian exclusively. I am an actor."

Torrence is an actor. An artist. For over 20 years he's been a figure on the legitimate English and American stage, 10 of those years a comedian in New York.

In coming to the screen, literally smothering his way in, he disregarded the advice of all his professional friends who made lamentable prophesies. They said he was too tall. They said he had no screen personality. They did everything to shoo him away. But regarding advice, refusing to recognize obstacles once he has arrived at an intelligent conclusion, is the best thing Torrence does. And that's why the production of the system haven't been able to pigeonhole him with a tag in the movies.

Blackstone Pleases Audiences With Mysticism

WHEN one man takes upon himself the task of entertaining an audience for more than an hour and does it creditably and to the entire satisfaction of the audience, the fact is worthy of comment. Blackstone, famous magician did Sunday at the New Orpheum theatre, with twice the usual audiences, beginning with the matinee, and many voted it the most pleasing and unusual entertainment they ever saw.

There are so many tricks which mystify the audience but that does not mark them as entertainers. They must have personality and Blackstone has it in full measure. Of course, the magic witchery of his art lends much to the entertainment. No one is more clever than Blackstone. His illusions and magic deceptions are perfect. The man who doesn't believe the hand is quicker than the eye has only to see Blackstone to be convinced of his error.

Real geese and ducks appear on the surface of a large tub of water, apparently from nowhere, and wade of the stage. A little white rabbit wrapped in a handkerchief, disappears and then reappears in the most astounding places, finally ending its eventful journey about the stage in the possession of the lucky child, which Blackstone selects from the audience. There is the vanishing water, loosed by a man in the audience, which appears again in the palm of a woman in the next row and many other astonishing feats.

A host of new tricks and illusions presented one after another in rapid succession, all startling and all mysterious, carries the spectator to a fairyland of make-believe, where nothing is real, where rabbits grow in every hat and birds appear from every handkerchief.

And everything is made amusing. Everything is given that gift turn, or twist, which elicits the interest of the audience. From every standpoint it is one of the most wholesome, entertaining brain stimulating performances ever given at the Orpheum.

Wednesday, Blackstone will have a spook night when he will reproduce by magic the manifestations which many have viewed as occult.

There will be a complete change of program for the last half of the week, beginning Thursday. A novel

Best Bill Yet at Faurot

By CAJE
THE most satisfactory bill of the entire season, is the one which opened Sunday night and, with the exception of Monday night will hold over at the Faurot until Thursday. Perhaps one of the funniest men in vaudeville is on the bill, and he kept the audience, that filled the theatre to the doors, laughing heartily until the very finale of the act. I refer to Farnell, of the team of Farnell & Florence. He does not resort to puns and funny sayings, rather a cross fire of talk, particularly of nothing, and this coupled with exaggerated situations and facial expressions makes of him a decidedly clever entertainer. At the latter part of the act he is ably assisted by Miss Florence.

There is not a bad act on the bill, covering as it does about all that a vaudeville program should contain. The show opens with a clever acrobatic act in which the Three Ralphs show decided cleverness,

Jack Norworth at Faurot Monday

Jack Norworth, in "Honey Moon House," will be at the Faurot Monday evening. A close scrutiny of the success of this play shows that it has met with popular favor throughout the season. This is especially true of its engagement at the Hanna theatre in Cleveland, where it ran two weeks. It must not be forgotten that Jack Norworth is by virtue of his art, licensed to star; he has been recognized for a long while as an entertainer of the highest order, not alone while teaming with Vora Hayes, but since.

"Honey Moon House," holds promise of being one of the best and most satisfactory entertainments of this or any other season. In its comedy and laugh elements it is said to be unusually bright and effective.

Yessie Nyrtay and Winslow have based the story upon a double wedding of four young people who cannot bear the thought of separation even for a honeymoon. It is followed by a plan to spend the period together, pooling their living expenses, and so prove that the impossible can be successfully accomplished. And through three acts of comedy and very human complications, these young folks discover that living together in such close intimacy has its dangerous effect. The theme is packed with exactly the natural situations which every young married couple discovers, except in this case it is a doubly entangling fact and thus twice as difficult, and twice as amusing to the audience.

The cast of clever players that have been selected to support Mr. Norworth are Jessie Nagle, Ann Warrington, Jack Lewis, Frances Loughlin, Dorothy Adelphi, William Powell, Ray Rawlings, Harry LeCron, Betty Fromen, Mabel Waldron, Richard Marsden and a host of others.

"To the Last Man" Is Intensely Dramatic Film

A FIGHT between the cattlemen and sheepmen in the Tonto Basin in Arizona during the eighties, is the basis of Zane Gray's dramatic story "To the Last Man," which has been adapted to the screen by Paramount and appears for the first half of the week at the Quilna theatre. It is the first of a series of Gray's novels to be filmed under the personal supervision of the author.

The action of the story is intensely swift and dramatic, takes place amid scenes of unusual beauty. Jean Isbol, a half-breed, returns to the home of his father to find a feud which had started many years previously, still raging between his father and Joith, a cattle rustler who had followed the Isbels to Arizona. Jean meets Joith's daughter and falls in love with her, however the girl refuses to see him. Following the killing of Jean's brother and father by Joith's men, are many terrific battles with Jean in the center of the fighting. He sticks until the last of Joith's men is gone and is rewarded by love of the girl.

Lois Wilson and Richard Dix head the exceptional cast. Others are Frank Campana, Robert Edson and Noah Beery. Quilna News.

and Aesop Fables accompany the picture.

WILL CHOOSE UP FOR CONTEST

Board of Commerce Membership Campaign to be Real Game

USE BIG LEAGUE NAMES

First Committee Meeting to be Held Monday Night

Captains of the various teams of the Board of Commerce membership will choose up Monday night at a meeting of captains, league presidents and the high commissioner of the drive. After the captains have chosen their players they will then compete for names, and of course there is considerable rivalry to get names of the probable pennant winners in the major leagues this fall.

Managing Secretary J. E. Morton of the board said Monday that the team that wins the name "Giants" may not win the Board of Commerce membership pennant because the scores are going to be counted on runs, hits and errors in the Lima "little world series." The series starts October 3, just a few days ahead of the big series between the National and American leagues of baseball clubs.

NAME NO AID
 "Just because a team happens to draw the name 'Yankee' is no proof it will win our pennant," said Morton. "In fact it has as good a chance of finishing as a tail ender. There will be considerable fun, however in selecting names of players because the fellow, for instance, who draws Babe Ruth will surely have to swat the membership pill to live up to the Ruth reputation."

Wilbur "Pete" DeWeese has been named by Secretary Morton to handle the arrangements for the series, he is to be a sort of George Eckert to the contest while George Eckert is the Kenesaw Mountain Landis of the membership drive between the two leagues. Emmett J. Jackson as the John Heydler of the National league and Glenn Webb as the Ban Johnson of the American league are both confident of winning the pennant, but are making no claims to clinching the old membership gonfalon.

 TO THE THEATERGOERS OF LIMA AND VICINITY:

I want to tell you about the GREATEST ENTERTAINMENT EVER PROVIDED in the city of Lima at within TWICE THE PRICES being charged for the BLACKSTONE SHOW. I am usually conservative in my estimates and utterances concerning the merit of attractions playing at the Orpheum, but the performance of BLACKSTONE is of such exceptionally fine quality that I feel it my duty to you to bring it strongly to your attention.

THE BLACKSTONE SHOW IS UNQUESTIONABLY THE MOST DELIGHTFUL NOVELTY THAT HAS EVER GRACED THIS THEATRE. All attendance records were broken Sunday when exactly 4372 persons jammed their way into the spacious playhouse. If you encounter any one of these I am sure that my EMPHATIC COMMENDATION will be more than attested.

I caution you to see BLACKSTONE as early as possible because in other cities visited by this attraction thousands who waited to see him the latter part of the week were unable to gain admittance.

MORRIS JUDGE

Hizzoner—Rastus, do you make a practice of stealing chickens?
Rastus—No, judge, I jes' go out semi-casualty.

J. S. Nichols, S. Jameson-ay, tells of a little girl who was very much interested in her Sunday school teacher's description of the glories of heaven and the horrors of hell. Finally the teacher asked her when she would rather go. "I believe I would like to see both places," she said.

Yes, indeed, McAncholy. The melancholy days are here. And there's a darn good reason. The overcoat I wore last year went stand another season.

The melancholy days are here. You bet there's a good reason on—Last spring I looked first at overcoat. And now I'm nearly frozen.

STRIKING PRESSMEN REFUSE TO RETURN

NEW YORK — Members of the local union of pressmen, whose unauthorized strike has hampered New York newspapers for a week, have refused to return to work. George L. Berry, international president, in a statement after a meeting of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union yesterday, which was stamped by members of the striking local, declared New York's daily pressmen would be run, if a whole force of men had to be brought from outside the city for each press.

EQUAL RIGHTS WILL BE DEMANDED BY WOMEN

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Women representing every state will meet in a great political convention in Washington December 1, 2 and 3, when the National Woman's party will concentrate all efforts to an passage thru the senate of the proposed equal rights amendment to the constitution. It was announced here last night after the national council of the party, in session here, met in executive session in the suite of Mrs. O. H. Belmont of New York, national president. On the first day of the convention a large delegation will ask President Coolidge to support the Lucretia Mott amendment which reads: "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction." Sunday, December 2, a mass meeting of women will be held in the National Woman's party headquarters opposite the capitol after which delegates will seek out the senators and representatives from their respective states to urge the passage of the amendment.

May bring you a delightful surprise

Do you realize how many prettier teeth you see nowadays? Millions of people now brush teeth in a new way. They combat the cloudy film. And those whiter, cleaner, safer teeth show what that method means.

You and yours will use it when you once learn what it does. And this free test will show you.

Those dingy coats

Your teeth are coated with a film—that vicious film you feel. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon that film discolours, then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Some of these troubles come to nearly all. You should fight the film.

Two easy ways

Now dental science has discovered two easy ways to fight film.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb which contains harsh grit.

Pepsodent PAT. OFF. REG. U.S.

The New-Day Dentifrice

Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists the world over now advise it. Careful people of some 50 nations use it every day.

Natural—gentle

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to better fight mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, to better digest starch deposits. So every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

Thus Pepsodent brings its amazing results in natural and gentle ways, without harsh grit.

Pepsodent results are quick and apparent. They will amaze and delight you.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the vicious film. See how teeth become whiter as the cloudy coats disappear.

This means much to you and yours. Cut our coupon now.
